A Note on PCC Charges

Local Charges for "Extras"

- The fees shown in this table do not include charges for heating, the services of a verger, music (e.g. organist, choir, buying sheet, streamed or recorded music), bells and flowers, which are fixed by the Parochial Church Council or the service provider (e.g. musicians or flower arrangers) and should be a fair cost for the service provided. The person officiating should discuss the statutory fees (and all others, see 4 below) with the family or those concerned and ensure that the person or persons paying the fees understand what they will be.
- In the case of a marriage service or a funeral service in church any costs and expenses incurred in respect of routine administration (including arranging dates and times and the making of entries in registers), the cost of the Parish Clerk, making the church available, cleaning and lighting are included in the fee prescribed as payable to the Parochial Church Council. For mileage costs: for weddings, the minister claims against the PCC, and this is included in the PCC fee – the couple pay no extra; for funerals the minister should claim the actual mileage directly from the Funeral Director in arrears when presenting their invoice.
- PCCs must spell out what a charge is for, this charge must be reasonable and specific to a service or "extra" delivered and may not include a general charge e.g. a "Facility Fee".
- A Table of Local Charges should be produced and displayed alongside this Table of Fees. It is important that ministers and Parish Clerks ensure that the families understand and agree to pay these charges before the service concerned if they want the "extras" offered. A PCC may resolve that the local charges are to be paid for in advance of the wedding and may decline to provide the extras if the agreed local charges have not been paid for at the time of the service. (But see 5)
- People cannot be obliged to pay the statutory fees in advance; this would be a voluntary arrangement on their part and the person paying may properly decline to pay in advance.
- Reference may be made to the Guide to the Parochial Fees of the Church of England p. 8f. on "Extras" which can be found online. N.B. this Guide is based on English law and English fees which are different (and higher) but the general principles on "Extras" apply.
